FRATERNITY MEN ARE URGED TO SET HIGH STANDARDS

Gettysburg College fraternity men were challenged "to set standards of gentlemanly, Christian, scholarly conduct that will just naturally cause everyone to follow your leadership" in an address Friday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg by Horace G. Nichol, New York, chairman of the National Interfraternity Conference.

Chairman Nichol spoke at the Interfraternity Pledge banquet, opening event in the observance at Gettysburg College of the 21st annual Interfraternity Weekend.

The observance is sponsored by the Undergraduate Interfraternity Council and the Alumni Interfraternity Conference and is honoring Dr. Frank H. Kramer, head of the Education Department at the college.

Richard Gaenzle, Phi Delta Theta, president of the undergraduate council, was the toastmaster and John S. Rice, chairman of the College Administrative Committee, extended greetings. Dr. Harvey D. Hoover gave the invocation.

The text of the address by Mr. Nichol follows:

Was Here In 1920

"To anyone dedicated to the cause of fraternities, as I am, it is a great honor to participate in this traditional occasion of the fraternities of Gettysburg College. To those of you who have the opportunity to live and study here, the place may not seem as famous as it does to those of us who look at it otherwise. For example, my uncle, Reverend William Berkey, graduated here many years ago and that caused me to always think of this college as a Christian college and a place of high ideals.

"Some years later—about 1920—I was on the Carnegie Tech basketball team that played here in mid-winter—in the old small gym and I literally almost got burned up with the place that evening as I just could not miss the coal stove that stood alongside the floor, despite the hospitality with which we were received and good sportsmanship of the game.

"However this evening I am under different auspices which remind me of the story of the woodpecker who felt he needed a vacation—so he flew from Minnesota out to California to see the wonderful trees about which he had heard so much. He was not disappointed by the great trees he found and he started pecking away. Just then a huge storm came up and one bolt of lightning hit the tree at which he was pecking, rent it in twain and dashed it and the woodpecker to the side of the road. As he finally came too, he shook himself, saw what had happened to the tree, and said: 'Well, it just shows what a good man can do when he is away from home.'

Talks To Pledges, Juniors

YOUTHS HELP RED CROSS DRIVE

"The Flaming Knights" have come to the aid of the Red Cross in Abbotstown.

Identified as a group of teen-age boys in that community who have formed a club of their own "the purpose of which is to rid the highways around town of cowboying and other forms of horseplay in automobiles," they impose fines on members found guilty of breaking the rules. They have sponsored the showing of films on traffic safety and have invited state policemen to lecture at their meetings.

They have volunteered their services to the Abbotstown Red Cross chairman, Mrs. Thomas Haugh, and she wrote County Campaign Chairman George W. Naugle Friday. "This group has consented to canvass a portion of town for Red Cross funds. I feel they deserve a lot of credit and merit recognition for this effort since young people too often cannot be bothered with work such as this. Most workers here have been very enthusiastic and I am hoping for excellent results."

In addition to the "Flaming Knights," Mrs. Haugh has these assistants with the canvass in Abbotstown: Mrs. Elizabeth Zinn, Mrs. Grace Swope, Mrs. Grace Chubb, Mrs. Harold Swope, Merle Sanders, Miss Elsie Eisenhart, and Harry Britton.

PROMOTED TO SERGEANT

Norris L. Minter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn L. Minter, a former personnel specialist, was recently promoted to sergeant. His address is RA 13514756, H/S Company, Third Engineer Battalion (C), APO 24, San Francisco, Calif.

Dr. Coleman Will Talk To Roundtable

Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the Gettysburg National Park, will speak Tuesday at a meeting of the New York City Civil War Round Table at a meeting at the New York University Faculty Club.

Dr. Coleman will have as his topic "Advancement on the Union Left on the Second Day," stressing the part played by the New York troops in connection with the defense of Little Round Top during the Battle of Gettysburg.

John C. Pemberton 3rd, grandson of the Confederate General Pemberton, is president of the New York Round Table.

IFC MEN HONOR DR. F. KRAMER AT SKIT SHOW

Tau Kappa Epsilon and Lambda Chi Alpha won first places in the skit-song contest of the 21st annual Interfraternity Weekend at Gettysburg College Friday night.

Tau Kappa Epsilon presented a skit entitled "The Court Martial of Stevens Hall and His Brother, Hanson," and Lambda Chi Alpha sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" and a medley of fraternity songs before a large all-male audience in the Plank Memorial Gymnasium.

Dr. Frank H. Kramer, who will retire as professor of education after 36 years of service at the end of this academic year, was given a standing ovation of nearly a full minute when he was presented a gift on behalf of all fraternity men by Richard Gaenzle, president of the Undergraduate Interfraternity Council. Dr. Kramer has served in an advisory capacity to the fraternities for over 30 years.

In accepting the gift Dr. Kramer said: "Dr. Hanson asked me 30 years ago to keep the fraternities out of trouble. I took his request figuratively as it would take a superman to do that. Some people have remarked about my youthfulness. It is because I have tried to keep up with you youngsters—just from a point of survival." The fraternity men then broke into singing "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow." The fraternities dedicated the weekend to Dr. Kramer.

John S. Rice, chairman of the College Administrative Committee, first president of the Alumni Interfraternity Conference and a member of Phi Gamma Delta, welcomed the visiting national officers and other guests here for the weekend.

Horace G. Nichol, Delta Upsilon, chairman of the National Interfraternity Conference, brought greetings from the national office to the Gettysburg fraternities. He challenged the men to leadership among the 61 national fraternities in the U.S. and Canada.

Car Strikes Bus; Two Men Injured

Two men were treated at the Warner Hospital Friday evening for injuries received when the car in which they were riding struck the rear end of a bus carrying workers.

Reno Bowser, 28, Chewsville, Md., was treated for a laceration of the scalp. John Swisher, 26, Chambersburg, driver of the car, was treated for multiple lacerations of the forehead and contusions.

CHECKS UP ON UNTAGGED DOGS

The owners of approximately 2,000 dogs in Adams County who have not secured 1956 licenses for their canines to far can expect a call from Dog Law Enforcement Officer James McDowell.

Officer McDowell checked with County Treasurer Jacob G. Applier Friday and learned that 3,414 licenses have been bought so far by dog owners — thus leaving approximately 2,000 canines without licenses.

As a result, McDowell announced, "I plan to go into every nook and cranny of the county next week arresting all those harboring unlicensed dogs."

The dog law enforcement officer warned that it will be cheaper to buy a dog license at $1.10 and $2.10 than to incur a fine, which can run from $5 to $100, and costs.

"Protect your pet and your pocket-book by licensing your dog now at the county treasurer's office in the Court House," McDowell said.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Gettysburg firemen were called at 8:20 o'clock Friday evening to a chimney fire at the Claude Rhoads home, seven miles north of here on the Harrisburg Rd.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

A garlic control demonstration will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the farm of John Keiser, near East Berlin, County Agent Frank S. Zettie announced Friday.

LACK OF STATE FUNDS DELAYS BOOK BUYING

With part of last year's state appropriation yet unpaid and with some current books bills awaiting payment, members of the Adams County Free Library's board of directors Friday evening kept the brakes on book purchases and delayed ordering stacks for the library until the state funds are paid.

The board agreed to pay transfer costs when informed that the trustees of the old Gettysburg Female Academy are going to petition the county court to transfer the academy's E. High St. property to the library.

The court-appointed trustees had said earlier that the library's purposes seemed to most nearly parallel those for which the academy was founded more than a century ago. The property adjoins the library property. The library has not said what use will be made of the small academy building.

President Asquith presided at the meeting with 10 members of the board and a former president, William M. Lott, an honorary member of the board, in attendance.

Library circulation took one of the largest jumps in its history last month, it was revealed by figures submitted in the February report of the librarian, Mrs. Mary S. Wilson. Book loans last month totaled 23,015 as compared with 17,131 in February of last year.

Her report showed there was an increase in every section of library services. Loans at the main library went up from 2,801 to 3,413; loans at the branches jumped from 361 to 788; school station totals went from 13,614 to 18,429 and the totals at the adult book stations in the county went up from 146 to 206.

Mrs. Wilson said the Hunters-town branch has been busy since its opening and had 150 loans last month. The Biglerville branch has been busy and a great deal of interest has been shown in books placed at the Piney Mountain and Cross Keys homes for the aged.

Committees Named

Miss Anna Faber and Mrs. Kenneth Smoke were named to a committee to investigate means of making books at the Warner Hospital more available to patients. They are now kept at the Snack Bar and loans have been few.

President Asquith made these committee assignments for the year: Finance, Attorney Thomas Pyle, chairman; C. P. Keefe, vice chairman; Mrs. Dora Ford, Miss Faber and William C. Darrah; and Property, J. Albert Blackburn, chairman; L. S. Long, vice chairman; Mrs. Smoke, Mrs. C. T. Ziegler and the Rev. Nevin Frantz.

The board decided to postpone until fall the school talent library

1,000 STUDENTS AT CONFERENCE

Approximately 1,000 sophomores and juniors from Adams County and other nearby high schools attended the twelfth annual Career Conference at Gettysburg College Friday afternoon.

Men and women in two scores of occupations and professions met with the students in groups of their own choosing to describe opportunities, working conditions and qualifications required for entry into those fields of work.

The secretarial group proved the most popular and had five sections. There were two sections of students discussing general farming, two for prospective nurses and four for students interested in teaching.

The conference opened with an assembly in the college chapel where the college choir under the direction of Parker B. Wagnild sang three selections.

General announcements and instructions were given there by John T. Held who was general chairman of the committee on arrangements. The conference is sponsored each year by the Adams County Schoolmen's Association. Teachers served as chairmen for each student group.

Court Files Opinion In Null Case Today

An opinion was handed down by the Adams County court this morning on preliminary objections to the complaint of John M. Null, Hanover R. 3, against Clinton F. Null and Clara E. Null, New Oxford R. 2.

John Null alleges he gave Clara E. Null sums totaling $7,368.81 to be deposited to his account. He further claims, according to the opinion, that Clinton and Clara Null converted to their own use all but $400 of that amount.

The preliminary objections held that insufficient detail was given in the original complaint.

NIXON BREAKS FARM BILL TIE SAVING PLAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tie-breaking vote by Vice President Nixon last night narrowly saved the administration's flexible farm price support program on wheat.

The 46-45 vote to reject a higher, rigid support level contrasted sharply with the 54-41 tally the day before on supports for cotton, corn and peanuts.

In addition to Nixon, 34 Republicans and 11 Democrats supported the administration stand, while 11 Republicans and 34 Democrats voted against it.

Challenged By Gore
The Nixon tally knocked out a special system of rigid price supports proposed for "quality milling wheat" and set off an angry parliamentary row that lasted for hours.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), who challenged decisions of Nixon and the Senate parliamentarian on the vice president's right to vote, in this particular parliamentary situation, promised to continue his battle Monday.

The Senate uproar over the wheat vote came after Senate clerks made a mistake and announced defeat of the higher supports by a 46-45 margin.

Green Switches
Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) managed to get Sen. Green (D-R.I.), who had voted against high wheat supports, to switch his vote.

But a recheck showed only 90 votes cast with the actual tally then a 45-45 tie. Nixon broke it by voting to knock out the higher wheat supports.

The action, if sustained by the House, would leave the support price on wheat at the $1.81 a bushel fixed for this year's crop instead of raising it to about $2.26.

Wanted New Vote
Gore tried to get agreement for a new vote on the issue Monday, but was blocked by Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California.

A switch in votes by a number of Republican senators from western wheat states caused the changed lineup from Thursday's 54-41 vote on other crops.

Still in the complicated bill was a special two-price system for rice. An effort to strip this from the measure may reach a vote Monday.

Hammer Out Compromise
Much of the time yesterday was spent hammering out a compromise to let corn belt farmers and producers of competitive livestock feed grains participate in the soil bank program.

As finally accepted, it would fix the minimum corn allotment this year at 51 million acres. Farmers in the commercial corn belt could share in soil bank payments and price supports by staying within their share of this allotment and agreeing to put land equal to 15 per cent of their allotment—but not necessarily corn land—in the soil bank program.

FRATERNITY MEN

institution with a religious background that humor is often found in strange places, as in the will of the Lutheran minister who shall be unnamed, and which was opened by his deacons in due course. Imagine their surprise when they read on one page:

"When I am dead and in the grave,

Let the deacons shed no tears; For then I shall be no more dead Than they have been for years."

"There was another Lutheran minister who got up one Sunday morning and preached for about ten minutes—then stopped and said: 'I am sorry but this is all I have for you today. My sermon was carefully prepared and written out, but a gust of wind came into my study and blew it out the window. Before I could get my hands on it my dog got it and chewed most of it up.' Afterward the minister was shaking hands with the congregation at the door when a visitor to the congregation stopped and said: 'Pastor, did you say that your dog got hold of that sermon and chewed all of it up except about ten minutes worth?'

"Yes, that is what I said," replied the minister. "Well, then," said the visitor, "would you please put my name on the list to get one of that dog's first pups so I can give it to our minister back home?"

"This evening when I am talking to the pledges of Gettysburg, I should also like to talk also to the juniors who will be important men in the lives of the pledges as I see it. The pledges, in all too short a time, will be juniors and I hope they will remember our discussion this evening."

We Can Improve
"While not forgetting that good humor is possibly as important as good manners and good friendship and good morals and hard work and good intentions, we might look at the serious side of fraternities this evening."

"We reflect on these matters because we feel we have not found the total answer yet. We feel we can improve our performance. We feel we could do better if we had complete understanding and complete determination. We want to be reassured of the validity of our cause and of our thinking."

"Everywhere I go I find the most significant testimony to the fact that we are on the right track—that you are on it—that you have the right objectives—that you are thinking accurately and carefully on what you are trying to do and why. So I will pinpoint a few of the things that might be called the positive approach to fraternity membership and let you think of them and reflect on them."

Three Objectives
"My own fraternity is no different basically from most of yours—so I may be pardoned for stating our four non-secret constitutional objectives, which are: The promotion of friendship, the development of character, the diffusion of liberal culture and the advancement of justice—and you all have much the same except that some add a religious objective which is a fine thing."

"Need anyone make more of a speech than to state and restate those objectives? Could you urge anyone to do better than to live up to those standards everyday in every way? How could you go wrong by following such sound precepts which are over a hundred years old in our case?"

"The only time fraternity men and fraternities get into difficulties or do not justify the great opportunity offered by membership in the various chapters, is when they deviate from their principles. It must be recognized that that will happen now and then—and that is the time when the full effect of the brotherhood is felt—the pride in one's fraternity—in one's college cause the responsible members to stop the deviations before they become important—and to see that correction takes place immediately—with discipline exerted when needed to get the correct views and actions in a given situation."

Quotes Newton D. Baker
"Newton D. Baker, secretary of War under President Woodrow Wilson, described fraternities thus:

"A fraternity is an association of men or women, selected in their college days by democratic processes, because of their adherence to common ideals and aspirations. Out of their association arises a personal relation which makes them unselfishly seek to advance one another in the arts of life and to add, to the formal instruction of the college curriculum, the culture and character which are acquired by contact with great personalities or when admitted to the partnership of great traditions."

"A fraternity, too, is of such character that after people have left college that they delight to renew their own youth by continued association with it and to bring their richest experience to the younger generation in part payment of the debt they feel . . . owe to the fraternity for what it gave them in their formative years."

Important Hours
"At the Dec. 1955 National Interfraternity Conference in St. Louis, Dean Haack of Washington U. said in effect that the educator is more and more recognizing that the hours from 4 to 9 may be as important as the hours from 9 to 4. The 4 to 9 hours are the time when the fraternity plays an important part of its part in the educational process, when its members are participating in what we might call the fraternity part of the curriculum, and when they are having those experiences that mean so much to them later in meeting the problems of life.

"Here you are living in a community which is called a college, somewhat aside from the rest of the world, where you have great opportunities and considerable responsibilities, too. You are preparing yourselves by these experiences to live in the larger community in which you will live when you graduate. This is no theory. This is a reality, with one exception; here you are allowed a greater percentage of errors than you will be allowed later in life. Here you are passing grade may be 70 or 80, but later on it becomes in the neighborhood of 90 to 100 depending on the occasion."

"Here you have a greater opportunity than the folks who do not go to college and there is no getting around the fact that fraternities . . . may have greater opportunity in most colleges than do the other students."

Brengs Responsibility
"This greater opportunity begets greater responsibility. How, for example, could seniors possibly feel they are properly accepting their responsibilities if they permit underclassmen to go out and raise Cain, or to have hot parties, or to goof in their studies—or throw buns at dinner? Probably that does not happen at a small, well integrated college such as Gettysburg but there are surely some opportunities for improvement. For example, have you any foreign exchange students in your fraternities—a terrific movement? Have you had any Rhoads Scholars recently? Why not? Look at yourselves in the mirror critically."

"Do too many of you carefully selected freshmen drop out of school before being initiated? Do you contribute to this mortality? How can you improve your selection and handling of pledges? These are just examples of what I suggest you study carefully."

"I understand your public relations are good. That is fine and possibly I am talking to the champs of the IFPs of America—but how much better can you be? What are the next steps to take in improvement? In fact, it is when you are good that you have to redouble your efforts not to allow any false ideas to creep in as to how easy it is, or the first thing you know you will find out how easy it is to skid from top place to some place away down the line."

Issues Challenge
"If I might leave one thought with you juniors, and remember: I said these remarks were directed to you—it is that you are next year's seniors and you are starting right now, in fact, you have already started to set the pattern for leadership in all these things next year. Are you satisfied with yourselves, or do you feel that by exchanging ideas between your own group as to how to do things better than this year's seniors have done that you might be thinking in the right direction?"

"Are you willing to set standards of gentlemanly, Christian, scholarly conduct that will just naturally cause everyone to follow your leadership? And will you cause it to be known that any deviations from such leadership and standards will just not be tolerated? That is the challenge to the fraternity and to fraternity men these days, which I leave with you to think about—possibly to discuss—and maybe to make some private resolutions that 1956-1957 will be a year of progress over 1955-1956."

"Then the parent will be proud to send his son to Gettysburg knowing that the ideals and actions of the student leaders will help his son to get the best possible break in getting the kind of an education, getting the kind of an educational experience he wants his son to have and which he knows will be most productive and helpful to him in life."

"Then the professions and businesses will eagerly seek out the graduates of a college with the kind of high standards of conduct and performance that the leaders of business and the professions know will produce the leaders of tomorrow."

Great Strides In Agriculture

Here: Hartman: "Adams county has become during the last six years a more predominantly agricultural section than ever before." County Agent M. T. Hartman asserted Thursday afternoon in a talk before 500 members of the Adams County Farm Bureau cooperative at their 12th annual meeting in the local high school building.

By the end of 1945 the number of farms in the county had increased to 3,213, a total of 142 more than the number in 1939, the county agent declared, and the total acreage under cultivation as farm land had increased by 8,492 acres over the 1939 figure.

During the years since 1939 the county has increased tremendously its production of canning crops, Hartman said, principally because the facilities of the county's canning companies have been able to take care of the increased acreage.

In 1939 there were 3,000 acres in the county devoted to the production of snapbeans, sweet corn, peas and tomatoes, the four principal canning crops. By the end of last summer the number of acres devoted to such production had increased to 9,000.

Miss Andrew New President of B. P. Club: Miss Dorothy Andrew was installed as the new president of the Gettysburg Business and Professional Women's club Thursday evening at a meeting at the YWCA. Mrs. A. R. Wentz, president of the board of directors, was the installing officer.

Other officers installed were: Vice president, Miss Jeanne Spangler; secretary, Miss Mary Bittinger; and treasurer, Miss Mildred Moser.

Countians Soon To Eat Bread From New Flour: Adams countyans soon will be eating bread and rolls baked from the new "Truman" flour with one mill in the county already producing a darkened flour that uses 87 per cent of the wheat grain instead of the 60 to 70 per cent formerly used.

The East Berlin Milling company, which found a short cut method of adjusting its machinery to produce a flour that is safely above the 80 per cent extraction minimum set by the government order, is the first concern in the county to produce the new flour, a check-up showed today. Other mills here have been closed down since March 1 while rollers were re-ground and new booting silk procured and installed.

Bigger Firemen Pick Officers: Earl Carey was elected president of the Biglerville fire company at its annual reorganization meeting held Thursday evening at the fire company house. He succeeds John Crawford.

Other officers elected were: Vice president, Charles Glunt; secretary, Bruce B. Taylor, assistant secretary, Rowe Martin; treasurer, Charles Baker. John W. Deardorff Sr. was elected first chief with L. M. Lupp and Ernest E. Unger as his assistants. R. O. Burkhardt, Ernest E. Unger and Donald Wright were elected auditors.

Other posts filled were Hose guards, Charles Rouzer, John Eckert, A. W. Fidler and Russell Mummert; chief pipemen, Sereck Haldean and Ralph Taylor.

Today's Talk

SECURITY AND PROTECTION

Two of the most important words that challenge us throughout life are these — Security and Protection. Governments these days have learned that it is an investment in universal health and happiness to do all it can to give Security and Protection to all its citizens. This assures growth and greatness to any government.

The great English statesman, William E. Gladstone, once said: "It is the duty of government to make it easy for the people to do right and difficult to do wrong." Laws are for the protection of the people, and, if respected, no one need fear them. There is freedom of thought and action. The law is a protector as well.

If we are thrifty and, as Robert Louis Stevenson has said, "earn a little — and spend a little less," we can start a personal security that will abide with us in all our later years. Here it is that the Government steps in to help through Social Security, to which we all contribute.

We need security for ourselves and family, and we need protection, too. We need protection from ourselves, for how often we make bad moves and get into trouble. It has been said that we are our worst enemy, but we can balance this by being our best friend at the same time. Bear in mind that a friend lasts longer than an enemy! Security and protection are in every friend that we may have, and we get the same thing from helpful habitual habits, such as reading and a love of art, music and nature. A love of books alone has helped to give mental security to thousands, and a protection from ignorance and loneliness. Books are silent friends — and they live forever!

SYRIAN URGES JORDAN TO TAKE ARAB SUBSIDY

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Syrian Premier Said Ghazal arrived by plane Friday to press Jordan to accept an Arab Big Three offer of a subsidy to replace the 30 million dollars a year Britain has been paying to support the Arab Legion.

Ghazal flew here from the Cairo conference of the chiefs of state of Syria, Saudi Arabia and Egypt. He went into an immediate huddle with Jordan's King Hussein and was due back in the Egyptian capital in the afternoon.

Informed sources said he came to Amman to strengthen the offer of financial aid the Arab leaders made reportedly Thursday through Jordan's minister to Egypt.

Ousted Week Ago

The Big Three — Saudi Arabia's King Saud, Syria's President Shukri Kuwaidi and Egypt's Premier Nasser — are trying to give Jordan the equivalent of the money she now gets from Britain to support the Arab Legion. The three leaders said Thursday an important announcement would be made soon.

The three nations said in January they would take over financial support if the British commander, Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, was dismissed. Glubb was ousted a week ago.

A U. N. spokesman said Burns had made some progress but that he would have to confer further with Israeli officials and would probably consult U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Warning From Glubb

In London, Jordan's ousted British military chief warned the British government not to let his dismissal provoke a get-tough policy toward Jordan. He said that might drive the strategic Middle East kingdom into the arms of Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

In a letter to the Times of London, Glubb told the British government it would "be a serious political error to get tough with Jordan at this stage."

Britain pulled 15 of its top officers out of Jordan after King Hussein fired Glubb. Members of Parliament also urged the subsidy to the Arab Legion be cut off.

2,000 EVACUEES AWAIT FALLING RIVER FLOODS

By CHARLES WELSH

WARREN, Pa. (AP)—Cold and muddy waters of the Allegheny River retreated from low-lying section of Warren Friday as some 2,000 evacuees watched hopefully for a chance to return home.

The flood rolled in suddenly Thursday morning, climbing to a 20th-century record of 18.3 feet. It inundated a large section of this northwestern Pennsylvania town of 15,000, creeping into the edge of the business district and forcing many industries to shut down.

There were no casualties. Evacuation of more than 500 families was carried out without major incident. Nearly all the homeless found overnight shelter with friends and neighbors on higher ground. The Red Cross sent 20 disaster workers here.

Bitter Weather Comes

Bitter winter weather blew in on the heels of the flood and helped curb the rising waters.

Flood stage at Warren, where the Conewago Creek flows into the Allegheny, is 14 feet. In the last major flood in 1947 the river reached a level of 17.4 feet and caused half a million dollars damage. Estimates were that the damage total would be higher this time.

Most spectacular of the evacuations was carried on at Warren General Hospital. Boats and trucks removed more than 60 patients, about half of whom were sent to their homes and the remainder sheltered at Warren State Hospital. Through the night 34 patients remained in the hospital, all of them listed as too ill to be moved. They had heat and light and normal services despite the water that reached into first-floor rooms.

Other Sections Hit

Some other sections of Pennsylvania also suffered from high waters. The Susquehanna River is above flood stage and reported still rising at Wilkes-Barre with a crest expected about noon (EST) Friday. However, the city expected its flood-control dikes to easily handle the high water.

Towns along the Allegheny River to Pittsburgh—where the Allegheny and Monongahela merge to form the Ohio—were expecting flood conditions Friday. But Weather Bureau experts said they did not expect any serious damage. At Franklin, where the stream crested about four feet over flood stage, a few families were evacuated from low-lying areas.

Crest At Pittsburgh

The Ohio River was expected to crest at 27 feet at Pittsburgh early this afternoon. That's two feet above flood stage but not enough to cause alarm.

"Red Cross officials were alerted this morning," a Weather Bureau spokesman said. "Everyone should be ready."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

A record attendance of 275 made the shrimp and oyster feed held by the Taneytown Kiwanis Club last Wednesday one of their most successful meetings. Kiwanians were present from Hanover, Westminster, Carlisle, W. Va., Front Royal, Va., Frederick, Hagerstown, Reisterstown, Pikesville, Winchester, and Thurmont.

Easter Sunrise services to be held at 6:30 o'clock Easter morning will be conducted by the Kiwanis Club, with Ki-wives singing the anthem. The place will be announced later.

Taneytown Kiwanians tied for first place with Westminster in Division 9 in attendance, membership and activities for the month of January.

WOMAN QUILTS HER SITDOWN STRIKE IN OHIO

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A Middletown woman's sitdown strike in the Butler County Courthouse has ended but the threat of legal repercussions still remained Friday.

After sitting for 30 hours outside the office of County Building Mrs. Thomas Cooney gave up and went home at the insistence of her husband.

Mrs. Cooney took up her vigil Wednesday in protest against the issuance of a permit for erection of a one-story concrete block building in Dixie Heights, a residential suburb of nearby Middletown. She claimed that Clinton Centers, the builder, planned to use the building for business purposes in violation of the building code.

No Violation Yet

Although she gave up her sitdown strike, Mrs. Cooney indicated legal action may be taken in the case.

The fuss all started when Centers received a permit to erect the building—connected with his own home by a breezeway—as a dwelling. Mrs. Cooney contended he intended to start an upholstery shop.

Building Commissioner Coning declared, however, the permit was for a dwelling and that "unless he violates the code, there is nothing we can do."

Will Form New Scout Troop In York Springs

Lightburn Is Impressive In Decisive Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Can brilliant Ludwig Lightburn still make 135 pounds and be strong?

If the 21-year-old British Hondur sharpshooter can still trim down to the lightweight limit then champion Wallace (Bud) Smith has something to sweat about. If not, then the welterweight class has another topnotch contender for Carmen Basilio's crown.

Fast-punching Ludwig didn't appear to have a spare ounce on his rangy, 5-8 frame last night when he weighed 140½ and raised lumps on the face of out-gunned Hoacine Khalif in Madison Square Garden.

Lightburn won from her e to Khalif's native Algeria for his seventh straight victory and his second consecutive rout of Hoacine.

Nothing Close About It

"Ludgie can make the lightweight limit yet," said Allie Clark, Lightburn's manager. "We want Smith for the title. We're not interested in welterweights."

Several experienced trainers and managers disagreed with Clark.

"He'll have to take a leg off to make 135," said one.

Khalif weighed 135½. His blows appeared feeble compared to Ludwig's sharp, damaging punches.

Referee Goldstein scored it 9-0 with one round even. Judges Frank Forbes (9-1) and Bert Grant (8-2) also had Lightburn an overwhelming winner. The AP card had it 9-1 for Lightburn, who was a 5-1 favorite.

His selections are: Handel's "Largo"; Elgar's "Salut D'Amour"; Bohm's "Calm as the Night"; Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song"; Macdowell's "To a Wild Rose"; and Saint-Saens' "My Heart at thy Sweet Voice." He will play Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

Chantilly Lace Gown

The bride will wear a white gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin designed with a fitted bodice and a sweetheart neckline fashioned with a high scalloped collar. Her full-gathered skirt features a front panel of accordion pleats in nylon tulle while the back and train are of lace over satin trimmed with scallops. The long sleeves taper over the wrists.

Her finger-tip illusion net veil has an open crown cap of Chantilly lace trimmed with iridescent sequins and seed pearls with leaves of illusion on each side. She will carry a white Bible adorned with a white orchid and streamers of white flowers.

Mrs. John W. Bream Jr., sister of the bride, Orrtanna R. 1, will be the matron of honor. The maid of honor is Miss Marie Buechner, York. They will wear matching gowns of aqua cotton lace fashioned with ballerina-length skirts and long torsos, fitted bodices, push-up sleeves and a round neckline. The headpieces are an aqua half-hat of horsehair with a nose veil. They will carry modern colonial bouquets of pink and white sim carnations.

Will Hold Reception

Edwin L. Fischer, brother of the bridegroom, York, is the best man. The ushers are Jay Nace and Raymond Reinhold, both of York.

The bride's mother will wear a Wedgwood blue taffeta gown with pink accessories. The mother of the bridegroom will appear in a light blue crepe dress with navy accessories. Each will wear a corsage of orchids.

After the wedding a reception will be held in the social room of Trinity Lutheran Church, Arendtsville. Later the couple will leave for a honeymoon in New York City.

As a going-away ensemble the bride will wear a cinnamon toast-colored linen suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. They will live with the bride's mother for a short time.

The bride is a graduate of Gettysburg High School, Class of 1953, and attended a business school in York. She is employed as a secretary at the York Water Company.

Mr. Fischer was graduated from the William Penn Senior High School, York, in 1953, and from the York Junior College in 1955. He is a member of the Junior Class at Pennsylvania State University where he is majoring in geology and mineralogy. He is a member of the university orchestra and the York Chapter of DeMolay.

Out-of-town guest will be from York, Baltimore, Reading, Shillington, Johnstown, Downingtown, and Falls Church and Alexandria, Va.

BUILDING AND FARM

A Properly Equipped Porch Can Give Much Enjoyment

A porch on a house is almost as useless as the appendix in the human body, a designer once said.

Probably the guy had never sat on one on a late summer afternoon and watched the twilight turn into evening. For the front porch is still the favorite relaxing place of millions of American families, and gives them a summer-long vacation right at home. But that vacation won't be as pleasant as it could be if the porch isn't checked now, in advance of its season of greatest use.

Are the roof and the woodwork in good repair, for instance? A leaky roof should be repaired as soon as possible, before ceiling and other surfaces are damaged. Dry rot in wood lets structural members sag and may cause extensive harm.

What about the floor? If it is rotting, replacing it with quarry tile will give a permanent non-decaying surface.

Is there sufficient light? Often a porch gets little use because it has only one large overhead light. The addition of a couple of baseboard outlets will make it possible to plug the floor lights, so that members of the family can read on the porch in comfort.

Are screens in good condition? Few things make a house look more run down than do old screens. If they need mending, now is the time to do it. If they are beyond repair, have them replaced.

What about the furniture? Maybe this is where the designer who disliked porches comes in. All too often the porch gets furnished with discarded from the rest of the house. If that is the case, consider now getting some really good porch furniture and dressing the room up so that you will enjoy it both for family use and for entertaining.

Here Are Tips For Novice Paperhanger

In calculating how much wallpaper you need for a room, figure 36 square feet of coverage a single roll.

If you want to get the old wallpaper off before applying a spanking fresh coat this spring, wet it thoroughly with warm water and scrape from the top down. Cover the baseboard areas with newspapers or dropcloths.

Wallpaper comes in rolls, 18, 22 or 30 inches wide. The 18 and 22 inch rolls are packaged in "double rolls," the 30-inch only in "triple rolls." All, however, are figured in "single rolls," which contain 36 square feet.

If you want to wallpaper a painted or varnished wall, wash it with soda (a pound of it to a gallon of warm water), then wash with clear warm water with a little vinegar in it. Then "size" the walls and allow the sizing to dry before applying the paper.

Galvanized Screens Need Paint Coating

Be sure to give adequate paint protection to galvanized screens to make them last as long as possible. Copper screening should also be painted to prevent the corrosive down-wash of the metal from staining light surfaces below.

To facilitate the job of applying screen enamel, special applicators are available that resemble black-board erasers. Pour a little screen enamel into a shallow pan, dip in your "eraser" and you can complete the job in short order. Paint both sides of the screening, of course.

When you tackle a screened porch, it simplifies matters if there are two on the painting team — one to work inside; the other, out.

Wallpaper Is Face-Lifting To Any Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
The Associated Press

Give your home a color break this spring. That's a tip from designers and manufacturers as they go into another "Spruce Up... It's Spring" campaign.

You'll find color everywhere as you shop for fabrics, decorative accessories, furniture, paint or wall paper.

Wallpapers are especially creative this year and they can do much for the home — make little rooms look larger, large rooms look smaller. It can bring the outdoors indoors and put great vistas in your vision.

The optical illusion can make one continuous room of a large area broken by projecting beams and architectural intrusions so that your eye ignores the interruptions. Wallpaper can even make two rooms seem to grow out of one.

Effective Cover-Up
You can achieve many effects with wall papers.

Striped wall papers, for instance, can work wonders with problem walls or ceilings. A vertical stripe can add height to a room if narrow stripes in a strong color are used. New thin peppermint stripes are stimulating and offer a variety of colors with which to match fabric colors. Striped papers in a long narrow hallway may shorten and broaden the area, lending a more inviting note.

You don't have to use a small pattern wall paper in a small room.

Handy 'Caddy' Helps 'Score' Of Busy Amateur Gardeners

Every good golfer needs a caddy. So does every good gardener. This garden tool caddy made of fir plywood, can be pulled from one part of the garden to the next. It has plenty of space for shovels, spades, hose, trowels, clippers, with inside space for water can, bulbs and plants.

Gardening is a lot of fun for those who like it — but it's also a lot of work. Here is something that will make life easier for the amateur Luther Burbanks.

A miniature tool house on wheels to save many steps for the busy gardener has been designed and built from fir plywood. This handy cart for the green thumb set can be constructed in the home workshop from easy to follow do-it-yourself plans.

Light In Weight
Just over four feet high, this garden caddy holds tools, equipment, insect spray and other garden necessities. And it rolls right along with the gardener. The caddy has roomy shelves to hold flats of plants or flower pots. Tool brackets on both sides hold rakes, hoes, shovels, and other implements for easy accessibility.

The caddy must be constructed of exterior-type fir plywood, which has 100 per cent waterproof glue. All garden caddy parts are joined with nails and water proof glue.

The caddy is light in weight, and

Many decorators believe the large pattern can give a sense of spaciousness.

Mural, Brick, Scenic Paper
A scenic wallpaper can give a room a real face lifting. If you have a long wall against which a series of low cabinets are placed for books, TV or record-player and records, choose a scenic pattern. Or give a garden-like feeling to your dining area with an outdoor mural wallpaper. A mural panel on the wall behind your bed may the five-inch rubber tired wheels.

Time To Start Planning Patio

It is patio planning time now. Get your ideas down on paper, for summer building weather will soon be here.

Your patios can be modest or elaborate, large or small. Patios can adjoin the home or be completely separate installations.

Here are a few ideas for simple and inexpensive patios adjoining the home. The simplest is a terrace floor of brick, flagstone or fir two-by-fours just big enough for a few lounging chairs, a bridge table or a snack table. If you use wood, allow for drainage underneath and lay fir two-by-fours with space between each one to let hose water drain away.

Next step is to add a wooden louvered screen to keep off sun glare. Four-by-four posts of fir or cedar will support a simple screen built up of one-by-six or one-by-eight inch boards. Permanent wooden benches with comfortable backs can be installed along one or more sides of the patio floor. Portable barbecues work well or you may have time and money to build your own barbecue pit. Study prevailing winds before you locate it to keep smoke from blowing into guests' faces. Build it to suit your need of the sun — cool or hot.

Plan Farm Safety Day

Plans for a state-wide safety field day to be held at Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa., in April were endorsed at the recent quarterly meeting of the Pennsylvania Rural Safety Council.

The field day was approved by the council instead of the farm safety institute, which has been held during the past four years.

Tentative plans for the field day include tractor tipping, fire fighting and safe driving demonstrations, showing of the latest farm and home safety movies and a luncheon business meeting of the council, announced Council President Jesse Cutler.

The president announced the following committee to prepare for the field day: Carson F. Mertz, W. J. Tucker, H. C. Fetterolf and Mrs. Clio Reinwald, all of the State Department of Public Instruction; Norman Reber, Pennsylvania Farmer Magazine; Robert Arnold, Nationwide Insurance Co.; James A. Conrey, Pennsylvania Threshermen & Farmers' Insurance Co.; Gus Bachman, Country Belle Dairy Cooperative; Joseph McCurdy, Lydia Tarrant, and Dr. Frank Anthony, all of Pennsylvania State University; Clyde Zehner, Farmers Union; Earl Hoffman, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Cooperative; Alvin N. Saylor, Pennsylvania Farmers Association; Cecil J. Irwin Jr., Centre Co. Pomona Grange; Wayne Hindman, Hindman Farm Supply; Robert Welk, State FFA; Collins Shoemaker, Ford Founda-

If a modern car were produced by methods used in 1908 it would cost more than $65,000.

APPLY PLENTY OF WATER AT TRANSPLANTING TIME

One thing all plants need when being transplanted is plenty of water to keep the roots from drying out. They should be heavily watered at transplanting time and then watered every few days at least until they become established and there is enough natural rainfall to take over the watering job.

DRAPERIES IN PANELS HAVE ADVANTAGES

Instead of using two large traverse draperies across your window wall, try hanging your window dressing in six or eight small sections. Just slipstitch the sections together along the side hems.

Then when a soil spot shows up, you can simply remove that one section for cleaning.

It's a good idea, too, to have two spare sections on hand. Replacing one small panel saves time and money.

OLD HOSE MAY SERVE AS GARDEN IRRIGATOR

An efficient garden irrigator can be made out of an old leaky hose sign to the dump heap. Plug the free end. With an icpick or awl, punch holes at 6 to 8-inch intervals all along the section of the hose that will lie in the garden when it is stretched out. Keep water pressure low.

HOUSE GUTTERS

Sometimes when you've nothing better to do, check the level of your house gutters by pouring a pail of water into them at the opposite end from the downspout and checking to see that it flows right down to the opening. If it doesn't adjust the gutter hangers so that it does.

Call Garage Storage Unit

Like a lot of other home owners, you're probably under the mistaken impression that a garage is basically a big box in which one should leave one's car overnight or over the weekend.

Well, it isn't. A garage (where have you been?) is for much more nowadays than a car. A new precise home dictionary could logically define it as "the home's single largest storage unit, usually attached or semi-attached to the house, in which anything can be stored, including even a car."

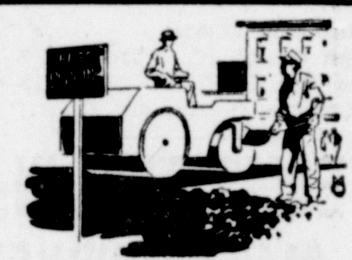

Every new home should have a garage: virtually every new home of the better class does. But that's not really enough, if you're looking for true, practical quality in your new home. There should be provision for built-in storage in your garage — a place for garden tools, your children's toys, and various household accessories.

If you've had the good fortune to inspect a new home where the architect has provided for ample garage storage, the chances are you've found a home value. More likely than not, he has also included tiled bathrooms, durable work surfaces in the kitchen, and other quality features in the house. When one area has been planned with care, such as the garage, then other areas will be wisely planned, too.

Storage space behind sliding doors at one end or on the side of the garage is the most practical. Even a work bench for the family handyman can be built right into this storage area. Picnic gear, heavy luggage, as well as furniture can be kept there.

Doors that open out don't make sense for obvious reasons. They're just as bad as equipment placed out on the floor.

The "Gladys" Provides Extra Space

Rooms ..... Seven
Closets ..... Eleven
Bedrooms ..... Four
Cubage ..... 23,000 feet
Dimensions ..... 46 by 25 feet

An attractive, two-story home, "The Gladys"—today's presentation from the Home of the Week Plan Service—will especially appeal to the many families who prefer a home that provides for "extra" space that can be finished off into additional rooms when they are needed.

This type of a home would be equally attractive in the city, country or suburbs—and can be placed near the street or further back on the lot with equally successful results. Any type of exterior finish would be suitable—shingles are suggested in the accompanying illustration.

Including the attached garage—which is an integral part of the house design—dimensions are 46 by 25 feet. Cubage is 23,000 feet. Thus you can build this house on approximately a 70-foot lot.

Can Delay Second Floor
This first floor in this plan provides complete living facilities. Thus, you don't have to complete second story until you so desire.

Two bedrooms are located in the right wing—on the first floor. One of these rooms is designated so that it can serve as a den. However, until the second floor is finished off, you'll probably prefer to use this optional purpose room as a bedroom.

The convenient dinette which is actually a part of the kitchen, can easily be used for all of your family's meals. However, for more formal occasions you'll no doubt prefer to put the living room to work as a dining area, also.

Well-planned, the kitchen itself is a carefully arranged work center where everything is within easy reach. Also carefully planned is the first floor laundry-utility room. A door provides easy access to the yard.

On the second floor there is sufficient space for two large bedrooms as well as for a bath and a generous amount of closet space.

Modern Planning
Throughout this house careful, modern planning is very much in evidence. A long central hallway provides easy passage through the house. Plenty of closets guarantee ample storage space. And, an abundance of windows add to the cheerful, pleasant appeal of the house.

Well worth mentioning, too, is the tool bench in the garage. This is a feature that will appeal especially to the home handy man.

Blueprints Available
Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

There were 1,532,000 marriages in the United States in 1955.

Color Of Paint Affects Good, Bad Features

Now that you're getting ready to paint the outside of your home during the forthcoming Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up campaign, you should choose the hue which will give your house its best possible appearance. Though not exactly a magical wishing ring, color, skillfully used, can minimize defects and emphasize good features. A swift look at the elementary color facts will help you put magic into your home.

First of all, light and bright colors make a house look larger. Therefore, if your house seems too small, use this principle as your guide for color choice.

Color Changes Sizes
If your chimney is too large for the size of the house, paint it the same color as the house body. Then the chimney will be less noticeable. This same treatment is also effective if the chimney is proportionally too small.

Is your roof line cut up with too many gables? If so, a dark color for both roof and dormers will camouflage this shortcoming. Also, if you emphasize your door and lower trim with an accent color, you will guide the eye to the lower level. By the way, a too-steep roof can be lowered by painting it a dark color.

Should you have many sizes and shapes in windows, you would be wise to paint the trim the same color as the body to avoid a cut-up, jumbled look. Also, it would help to remove the shutters from all the small windows.

Consider The Neighbors
A house can be widened by use

USE OUTDOOR ENAMEL FOR GARDEN FURNITURE

Don't be tempted to use regular house paint on garden or porch furniture. House paint is often formulated to chalk in such a manner that it cleans itself—an excellent quality when the paint is on a house. If such paint is used on garden furniture, however, it may rub off on your clothing. Outdoor enamel is the product to use.

REMOVE RUST BEFORE PAINTING THE HOUSE

Rusty dark spots from nail heads sometimes appear through the outside paint on a frame house. Remove the rust from the nail heads and the paint with sandpaper or steel wool. Then countersink the nail heads so that they are slightly below the surface of the wood. Coat them with thinned paint. When dry, cover the nail heads with putty. Then repaint.

HARDWOOD NOW USED WITH RADIANT HEATING

Hardwood floors now are being used successfully in conjunction with radiant floor heating systems in homes built on concrete slabs. For best performance of the floors which are laid in mastic, experts recommend a boiler water temperature of about 115 degrees under ordinary conditions.

of body or trim color on trellis, fence and garden furniture. When you are selecting the color best suited to your home's needs, be sure to remember your neighbors, too. Choose hues which will blend with their home colors so that the neighborhood will be a model of color beauty.

Thus, you can be your own genie and reshape your home to fit your heart's desire. Color is indeed magic in a can.

Greener Grass Can Be On Both Sides Of Fence

GREENER GRASS

Your lawn and yard is the entrance hall to your property so it should create a pleasing impression for your visitors. By following a few simple rules, your brownish-green yard can be transformed into an attractive green lawn.

The first step in starting a new lawn is to choose a grass seed suited to your soil, sun or shade condition, and climate. A few minutes' talk with your hardware dealer will aid you with your selection.

With the correct type of seed purchased, you are now ready to begin actual work. First of all, spade the ground to a depth of at least six inches, breaking up the dirt clods. A good humus, such as peat moss, should be mixed in.

Measure Seed, Food
Plant food should be applied next. Two pounds of lime and four pounds of plant food should be applied to each 100 square feet of lawn. This mixture should be worked in the soil with a rake.

Next, seed your lawn carefully. Usually one pound of lawn seed is used per 200 square feet of lawn. Sow the seed in one direction first and then in the other for even distribution. Cover the seed with a light coat of soil about one eighth of an inch deep. Then, use a board or roller to press the soil.

Frequent watering is essential during the first few weeks. A sprinkler is most effective, especially when the grass is young.

Be Careful In Cutting
Once the grass begins to grow, cutting should be carefully considered. For the first cuttings the mower blades should be as high as possible. Be sure the blades are sharp.

If your lawn is established but needs a little rejuvenating, you should rake it with a long-tooth

Invisible Balances Made For Windows

Home owners who dislike visible sash-balance mechanism in their windows may install spring sash balances which are invisible in that the entire unit fits into a grooved side stile and moves with the sash.

The only exposed part of the spring-balance device is approximately one inch of the brass bearing arm when the window is closed. Mechanism of balance is an oil-tempered spring completely enclosed in a spiraled tube operating with a brass bearing arm on the worm gear principle.

SAFETY MEASURE

Small fry are especially intrigued by items they are told not to touch. Even though such a verbal warning is given, such liquids as kerosene should not be left beneath the sink or anywhere within reach of small children. Never store them in milk bottles or other containers that usually hold safe, drinkable liquids.

ANCHORS FOR WOOD

Wood members can be fastened together with machine screws or bolts through the use of a small threaded anchor that can be set into the wood. These anchors are especially good for any article that needs to be taken apart for one reason or another.

rake to loosen the soil to a depth of an inch or more, then sow one pound of lawn seed to each 300 square feet of lawn, using more in the thinner areas. Use a short-tooth rake to cover it and then roll it or tramp it with a flat board and sprinkle lightly. Top it with fertilizer (four pounds to each 100 square feet).

So, you see, the grass needn't be greener on the other side of the fence, provided you plant up during the current Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up campaign.

Use Light Bulb When Checking On Cause Of Fuse Box Failure

Changing a fuse can be a perfectly safe operation, or it can be fraught with danger. The common fuse for home circuits is 15 amperes. When one of them blows, it should be replaced by the same capacity fuse, not by pennies or wire.

Always turn off the master switch when a fuse blows.

PATCH CANVAS AWNING

Holes in canvas awnings can be patched with a piece of canvas—the same color as the original if possible and some rubber cement. Apply the cement to the underside of the awning around the hole and then to one surface of the patch around the rim. Press the patch into place and it'll hold.

DRIVES BUGS AWAY

If you have trouble with bugs getting stuck in fresh paint, mix about one teaspoonful of oil of citronella to each gallon of paint. The odor of the citronella will keep the bugs off the fresh paint.

ROOM FOR EXPANSION

When laying hardwood flooring in residences, do not, under any circumstances, lay it tight against studding or walls. Leave not less than 1/2-inch horizontal expansion space at all walls.

Your problem may be a short-circuit, or it may be an overloaded circuit. To find out, you insert a 25-watt bulb in the socket from which you removed the bad fuse.

If the bulb burns dimly, you have an overloaded circuit and should disconnect some appliances. If it burns brightly, there's a short-circuit in the house, and another fuse inserted under those conditions will blow out instantly.

To find the appliance with the short circuit, unplug your appliances one at a time and check the brightness of the test light, when the light dims, you have found the trouble maker.

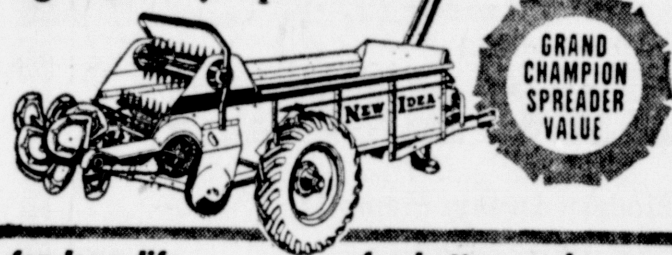

If you have made both these checks and the fuse still blows, your trouble is more serious. Call an electrician. The problem may be inside the walls.

Don't try to change fuses in the dark. Keep a flashlight near the fuse box.

COOLING FENCES

You can have an air-conditioned yard with plenty of privacy if you design your fences to allow for a free flow of breezes. Many new designs add charm to your red cedar fences while still keeping you cool. You can use fence boards set as louvers, or alternate flat boards on either side of top and bottom rail and many other styles.

with KARATHANE WD for powdery mildew control

prevent this . . . . . get this

Powdery mildew, the felt-like mold that overwinters in the buds and may attack the leaves, blossoms, and the fruit itself, can now be effectively checked by KARATHANE WD in apple and pear orchards all over the country. KARATHANE WD is the first fungicide since sulfur to really control mildew. But unlike sulfur, it does not harm the blossoms, fruit or foliage of sensitive varieties, when used as recommended.

When applied at pre-bloom and again during the cover period, it is effective even against severe outbreaks. For apples, only 1 lb. of KARATHANE is needed for 100 gallons of spray; for pears, only 1/2 to 3/4 lb. Control is made still more effective by adding 2 or 3 ounces of TRITON B-1956 to assure thorough wetting and coverage. Since KARATHANE WD is also a miticide, the same applications will control both mildew and European red, Willamette, two-spotted, and Pacific mites. Your supplier can give you a copy of our KARATHANE folder, which contains more complete information.

For healthier orchards and finer fruit, also use DITHANE Z-78 fungicide for sooty blotch, Brooks spot, black rot, and secondary scab.

RHOTHANE (DDD) sprays give unsurpassed control of red-banded leaf roller, and will aid in the control of apple maggots, and codling moth.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
The Associated Press

The Cinderella of good home building today is the common nail. To look at an ordinary nail — that old faithful eightpenny, tenpenny, and so forth — you'd wonder how anything so plain and simple would be improved upon, or even why it should need any glamorizing.

Well, the sad story is that joints fastened with ordinary nails don't always hold tight. As wood swells with moisture and then shrinks in drying — season in and season out — ordinary nails tend to loosen and your house, like pants on a growing boy, tends to come apart at its seams.

Even screws don't always hold securely. You've probably noticed this in table legs. But a slight twist usually fixes that forever. And when you drive a screw tight, Man, it's tight! Of course, it would be possible to use screws throughout in building a house, but your house undoubtedly would turn out to be the most expensive and most extravagant house in the world.

Nails are cheaper than screws, not only in original cost but also in labor time required to drive them. A carpenter can go down the line driving maybe a hundred or more nails in the time it would take a cabinet maker to drill a starting hole, countersink and drive home one screw.

So screw-nails and nails with barbed rings around them to catch and hold like fish hooks became the answer. Sounds simple now that the problem is solved, but it took a lot of research to develop them.

First some hurry-up builders apparently discovered how much they could save in labor by having two nails driven in place of three. Then high winds and hurricanes came along, blew some houses down and not others. Insurance companies, holding the bag for wind damage under some of their fire insurance policies, inspected the scenes and found well-nailed houses standing where nail-starved houses fell.

The government got busy and compiled studies on adequate nailing. The nail industry, like the automobile industry, started to turn out better and newer models. Dry wall material manufacturers wanted something done about nails popping out through wallpaper.

Design Stronger Nails

So the Cinderella common nail was sent to college. Dr. E. George Stern of the wood research laboratory at Virginia Polytechnic Institute came up with new designs that doubled and tripled the holding power of nails. Coarse threads like those of an auger were cut into nails so they'd bore themselves into the fibers of wood with each blow of the hammer. Annular rings, barbed backward to lock with wood fibers, were de-

3-Cornered Putty Is Now On Market

Latest convenience for the handyman, believe it or not, is three-cornered putty. Yes, it's already on the market — included in a do-it-yourself kit assembled for the householder who has a pane or two of glass to set.

The putty — it's actually glazing compound — is packed in a metal tube with a triangular outlet. When the tube is squeezed, the compound comes out in just the right shape to fit the angle formed by the window frame and the glass, thus eliminating the messy job of digging putty out of a can and rolling it by hand.

In addition to the glazing compound — 150 inches of it in each tube — the glazing kit contains a putty knife of spring steel and a packet of extra-sharp glazier's points. The tubes of compound may be bought separately, according to the manufacturer's announcement.

SANDPAPER TRICK

To get the best results from sandpaper, when you start with a fresh new piece, tear it in half and rub the two halves together. This will remove any high spots on the sandpaper which would otherwise leave deep scratches in the wood or finish that you were sanding.

veloped to a point where a "one-way" nail could be named. Once driven, it can't loosen.

Tests showed that one house, built of green lumber with plain shank nails, came apart under a racking load of 360 pounds. Another house of green lumber, fastened with one-way nails, stood a test of $640 pounds and its base plate broke before the nails pulled out.

So Virginia Polytechnic built a demonstration house to show how a house should be put together. It was found that 52,000 nails were needed and 33 different types of new nails were used. "The cost of the nails used in the average dwelling amounts to two-thirds of 1 per cent of the total cost of the house, if they are the plain-shank type, and possibly slightly more than 1 per cent, if of the improved type."

Use 33 Types
Why were 33 different types used? Because there are special nails for special places nowadays. There are hardened steel screw type concrete nails, threaded aluminum nails, curlicue nails to hold insulation pads, screw nails with neoprene washers for sheet metal roofing, grooved steel gypsum wall-board nails, special nails for asphalt shingles, toothed flooring nails — and so many others they didn't need all of them in the VPI house.

All of these nails are on the market now. You don't have to wait for them to be made.

To Make Poor Soil Good Spade In What It Lacks

Plants can be grown without soil, but nature uses it to support plant roots, and store food and water which the roots require. Men have never found a better way to make gardens, than by using soil.

Roots require air as well as food and water. Unless air can penetrate the soil, the roots cannot function. This demands that lawns and gardens have good drainage, so water which is not held in storage by soil particles will escape and allow air to enter.

If your soil is stiff, hard to spade and cultivate, slow to allow water to drain through it, every spring something should be added to make it more porous.

Beginning gardeners are often persuaded that what is needed is a few inches of "black dirt." Even if your soil is clay, excavated for the foundation of a new home, that is the wrong solution. Forget the color of the soil and concentrate on its porosity, a quality without which any soil black, yellow, or red, will give you trouble.

At the other extreme are soils in beach areas, of almost pure sand. These are altogether too porous, holding neither moisture nor plant food, but letting everything wash away.

Both types of soil need the same treatment which is the addition of decayed vegetable or animal material, such as sewage sludge, muck or peat dug from old bogs, well decayed manure, commercial peat moss, leaf mould or compost from a compost pile.

It is seldom advisable to mix sand with clay or clay with sand, soil, but together they often produce an extremely hard composition. Instead of sand, however, limestone can be mixed with clay, with excellent results. Limestone causes the fine clay particles to combine into crumb-like aggregates which will retain moisture, while allowing air to enter freely and excess water to drain off.

Use Limestone Freely
Do not be afraid to use crushed limestone freely, since it will not

PREPARE THE KNOTS FOR PAINTING OVER

Before painting over a knot, be sure to fill any cavities with plastic wood or wood putty and then apply a sealer to the area to prevent the sap in the knot from staining the new coating. This sealer may be a product made especially for the purpose — or shellac. When you use shellac, remember that you usually need alcohol to "cut" or thin it. The label on the can will let you know the proportions to use.

make clay soil harmfully alkaline. The clay has a "buffer" capacity which prevents this, say the scientists.

All the materials used to improve your soil should be mixed with it thoroughly. Spade the organics into sandy soil also. They will hold moisture and store up plant food for the plants to use, instead of allowing it to wash away.

Spading alone is a fine soil conditioner, and if planned sensibly is not a difficult chore. Mark the area to be spaded as a whole and divide into sections, one for each day. Limit the day's work to an hour, until you become hardened to it.

Spread material to be spaded in evenly over the whole area. Begin by opening up a trench at one end of the day's section, throwing the soil removed in a pile nearby. Then dig an adjoining trench, with spade at right angles to its length, throwing the soil and organic matter into the first trench. Continue this until the day's work is over, resting at frequent intervals. Fill the final trench with soil removed from the first. Drive the spade straight down each time, digging the full length of its blade; and turn the "spit" of soil as you drop it. It beats any kind of plowing for a small garden.

GOOD MORTAR MIX IS EXPERT'S SUGGESTION

One expert suggests the following as a good all-round mortar mix for use in building outdoor walls of brick or concrete block: Two parts cement, nine parts graded sand and one part hydrated lime. That's about enough to lay 100 bricks. Be sure to specify "sharp" sand when ordering. The sand should have no dirt in it whatsoever.

NAILING HARDBOARD

When fastening hardboard into place, be sure that the nails are spaced at least 3/4 inch from the edge of the hardboard panel. If the nail is too close to the edge, it won't have much holding power.

NEVER APPLY OIL TO WAXED SURFACE

Never apply oil to a waxed surface. Oil will soften the wax finish, making it smeared and sticky.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Don't worry about blue or brown stains on new lumber. These stains are not a sign of decay or damage from insects and lumber of this type will work and take paint just as well as unstained lumber.

Powder Room Can Fit Into Any Area

A powder room can be an inexpensive feature of any new home. It can be built in less than half the space required by even a small bath, and yet it will nearly double bathroom facilities. As little as 14 square feet of space are needed for a powder room, and that's an area equivalent to the average hall clothes closet.

Allow an area two-and-a-half feet wide and five-and-a-half long in planning a minimum powder room. Place the water closet on one short wall and the wash basin on the other.

This space probably won't allow you to use a regular door, but a sliding one is just as convenient. In a slightly larger, squarish powder room you can have a door that swings inward, just as in the bathroom.

Plan mechanical ventilation in an area as small as this. The Federal Housing Administration will approve such a room, so that no difficulties will arise on the mortgage. The ventilating fan should operate in parallel with the light switch and should have an exhaust capacity of 24 cubic feet a minute.

THORNTON MAY FOLLOW M'KAY IN CABINET JOB

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado was reported today to replace Secretary of Interior McKay.

McKay unexpectedly announced yesterday he will leave the Cabinet post about June 1 to seek the Oregon Senate seat now held by Sen. Morse. Morse, elected as a Republican, is seeking re-election as a Democrat.

Thornton, one of Eisenhower's pre-convention supporters in 1952, was said to be only one of several westerners being discussed after McKay was reported to have been personally nudged into the Oregon race by the President.

Has Inside Track
Thornton has been a strong supporter and a frequent golfing companion of the President, and there were indications that he had something of an inside track for the post.

However, he has opposition from some Republicans who didn't relish his refusal to run for the Senate from his home state in 1954. Sen. Elliott (R-Colo.), then lieutenant governor, made a successful race after Thornton bowed out to return to private business.

Along with others whose names didn't immediately come to the surface, Asst. Secretary of the Interior Wesley A. D'Ewart was being mentioned as a possibility. Like McKay, D'Ewart, a former Montana congressman, has been under fire from Democrats, but not to the same extent as McKay.

Not Asked By Ike
McKay bowed out of what most Republicans regard as the relative security of a Cabinet post good for four more years to enter a Senate campaign where the outcome is uncertain.

Informed GOP officials here credited Eisenhower personally with swaying McKay's unexpected decision to enter the lists against Morse, although McKay said in Salem, Ore., yesterday that Eisenhower had not asked him to run.
